OVERVIEW

Daniel is a bankruptcy attorney assisting clients with bankruptcy-related proceedings, including chapters 7, 11, 12, and 13, state law workouts, and insolvency-related negotiations. With his ability to cut to the heart complicated issues, Daniel's clients appreciate his compassion through hard times during litigation as well as his vigor to hammer out tough deals.

Prior to joining Jordan Ramis PC's Bankruptcy and Creditors' Rights team, Daniel spent four years practicing as an associate attorney at a Portland-based bankruptcy law firm. During this time, he performed pro-bono work with Legal Aid of Portland, including assisting low-income individuals in the Legal Aid Bankruptcy Clinic. He also externed for Judges McKittrick and Hercher at the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Oregon.

With a knack for problem-solving, what Daniel enjoys most about practicing law is being able to see clients prosper after guiding them through complicated issues. When he is not in the office, Daniel spends time with his family, plays ultimate frisbee, and heads to Providence Park to watch the Timbers and Thorns.
