

Governmental Services

OVERVIEW

We are in the business of helping people build and manage cities. Throughout the Pacific Northwest, our attorneys represent clients in a wide range of government matters with an emphasis on land use, construction, environmental, employment, and real estate. Our government agency clients include cities, counties, special districts, school districts, port districts, and public transit districts. Because of our extensive experience in local government, we also represent private businesses in their interactions with government agencies.

As communities experience growth, our governmental services team is active in all phases of this process, from advising clients on community development and urban renewal to infrastructure financing or litigating as far as the U.S. Supreme Court. Our long-standing reputation and high level of expertise in providing governmental services to public and private clients has earned our firm and our attorneys recognition as one of the top law firms in the Pacific Northwest.
